Pillaton Village News

No. 200 March 2019

At first, I was struggling a bit for copy this month, and then suddenly by chance I noticed it was edition number 200 for the Pillaton Village News; the Bicentennial edition! That was the front cover sorted.

Now, normally planning for such notable anniversaries would begin years in advance; in my case three days. Additional features would need to be written; possibly a special offer for readers, and maybe an interview with a VIP who claims to be a long-time reader of the Village News.

So, what have readers got? The aforementioned front cover; the special bonus offer is that the Village News continues to be free and as for the VIP, well my wife said she was a bit busy. On the plus side, (although readers may not necessarily concur), you've got an extra article by me on page 12 that may become the first of an occasional series.

The Pillaton Village News has now been running for over 32 years since August 1986. As many will remember, Delcia Miles was the first editor, starting the Village News with the help of husband John; both now sadly passed away. It's now nearly 10 years ago, and over 50 editions, since I got my sticky mitts on the reins as editor. During all the time the Village News has been running much has happened in the world; the Berlin Wall came down, the Soviet Empire collapsed, there have been two Gulf Wars, conflict in Afghanistan and Syria/Iraq, 9/11, the 'Credit Crunch' and the rise of social media and the mobile phone. By and large, not very cheery! However, despite all the turbulence elsewhere in the world I think it's true to say that Pillaton has changed very little and still remains, at heart, a friendly and welcoming village.

With more key votes soon expected in Parliament I couldn't really leave this editorial without mentioning Brexit.

I am now coming to the conclusion that at the moment Prime Minister must be sharing an affliction in common with Manchester United's most successful manager, Sir Alex Ferguson. He famously referred to the closing minutes of important football matches as being "squeaky bottom" time for the manager. To continue the footballing analogy for the Prime Minister no-one knows whether there will be a very late winning goal; will the match go to extra time and perhaps penalties to settle the matter. By the time you read this, it could all be over with the result known, or perish the thought, a floodlight failure and a replay in prospect. Whatever happens in Parliament, I'm not looking forward to Friday 29 March with enthusiasm - 10.00 am appointment with the dentist!

The next copy date is 7 May 2019, - full details on page 23.

IMPORTANT - PILLATON DEFIBRILLATOR OPENING THE CABINET

In a recent emergency, people were unable to gain access to the defibrillator because they could not open the door. The correct code had been given by the ambulance service but the door will only open if door handle is then turned counter clockwise. That is towards quarter to the hour and NOT quarter past. An added irritation is that once code has been entered, it is possible to turn the handle clockwise slightly before it stops.

the keypad on the cabinet.

However, in an emergency and darkness this lacks clarity and significance. I have raised this issue with supplier and suggested that they arrange for ambulance service to emphasise door opening procedure.

Obviously, the optimal solution is a door handle that will allow opening either way it is turned. I will keep you informed of supplier response.

YOUR SAY - IN YOUR CHURCH!

The Annual Meeting (APCM) for our combined churches at St Mellion and Pillaton – St. Melanus and St. Odulph – will take place on, Sunday 31 March 2019 at 11.15 am, in St. Odulph's church, Pillaton, immediately following the Family Service for Mothering Sunday. The meeting is open to anyone to attend.

An annual report will be available at least a week earlier, reporting on the life and events of the church community over the last year. This will include worship, groups, finances and the church building and there will be a chance to ask questions. There will also be a vision on how the church develops in St. Mellion and Pillaton in the coming years.

This is also the time to elect Churchwardens, members of the church council (PCC), and other roles.

The church exists for the benefit of the local community and we hope that you will take this chance to show your support for your church.

If you are interested in standing for election as a churchwarden or member of the PCC, please contact the Secretary, Ann Henderson, on 01579 351289 or via alloursaints@gmail.com. (Note that to stand for election, you will need to be on the Church Electoral Roll and to have attended church and received Holy Communion at least 3 times during the past year.)

We look forward to seeing you.

HE IS STILL HERE!!

I am, of course, talking about the Peacock, who some of us have named Pete, some Percy, even Kevin.

Some of you may have wondered what has happened to him, some of you may not care, some of you may not even know of his existence but he arrived in the Village in May last year. Efforts were made to find out from whence he cometh but unfortunately all our enquiries were unsuccessful.

Pete could be seen regularly strutting around the village, a very handsome chap until he lost most of his tail feathers in the early Autumn. Since before Christmas he has seemed to favour the Barton Meadows/back of Briars Ryn area and has been regularly fed by Lesley, Maggie and myself and those are the people we know about!!

Advice was taken from the RSPCA, RSPB and Dartmoor Zoo as to diet and habitat. All gave us very good feedback and it turned out that Peacocks are quite hardy creatures and can easily survive on foraging in the grass for food. However, he has been fed, corn, meal worms, bird nuts, cat food and soft fruit. Needless to say, he is thriving. His new tail feathers have all grown back and he has been 'strutting his stuff' around the garden during the last few days, looking very handsome.

He has roosted every night in the Oak Tree and has been there from 4.30 pm until 8.30 am. At one stage you could almost set your clock by him but with the nights drawing out and the mornings getting lighter, his roosting pattern has changed.

This week he has been calling a lot and we are not sure whether he will leave the Village in search of a mate, but we have all enjoyed having him here and will be sorry to see him go!

100 YEARS AGO

Recently, I found myself stumbling around in an online newspaper archive, when I had one of my rare new ideas for an article in the Village News – what was happening in Pillaton 100 years ago? So here is the first of what will be an occasional (possibly, depending on the editor's mood, very infrequent) series exploring 100 and possibly similar anniversaries.

Naturally there are a huge variety of possible stories from which to choose, ranging from village fetes, births and deaths to tragic accidents, so I have had to adopt a rather scattergun (some would say blunderbuss) approach. Also, even though the newspapers of yesteryears reported matters in copious detail, as Pillaton is not the biggest place in the world, it tends not to feature that often. Therefore, I have widened my remit to include items from the wider area, including Callington and Saltash that I feel may be of interest. So here goes.

In 1919, the Great War had just finished, so the first snippet involves the return of one of Pillaton's war heroes. On 9 Jan 1919 the Western Morning News reported a successful social had been held in the National Schoolroom, (now the Village Hall), Pillaton on behalf of St Dunstan's Hostel for Blinded Sailors and Soldiers. In particular, the occasion was used to welcome home Cpl William Stephens, youngest son of Harold Stephens of Pillaton Mill and Cliff Farm, Antony and congratulate him on winning the Military Medal. William had joined the Royal Artillery at Saltash in 1916 and was later promoted to corporal in the Machine Gun Corps in 1918. Lusty cheers were accorded him by all present and the proceeds of the collection amounted to £10 0s 8d.

Before World War 1 much of the local land and the property was owned by major landowners as part of large country estates. However higher taxes, death duties and shortage of labour, particularly after the war forced the decline of such estates, as reflected in the next two items.

The East Cornwall Hunt in Fore Street, Callington. The large white building in the centre is Goldings Hotel, half of which was demolished in the mid -20th century to create New Road.

In March 1919 it was reported that a third of the parish of Callington was being put up for sale by the Marquess of Northampton who was the hereditary Lord of the Manor. His estate in Callington included over 2000 acres of agricultural land, Goldings Hotel, the market and many other domestic properties in the town which were rented from the Marquess.

The sale was widely attended and took place at Golding's

Hotel over two days that October with all existing tenants of farms and dwelling-houses being given the first option to buy. House prices for cottages ranged from £40 to £10 and for most working people who could be living on as little as a pound a week, this represented a very significant sum. However, the sale did lead to many of the smaller properties in Callington becoming individually owned, often by the people who had lived in them for generations. On the second day of the sale Callington Market, with buildings, market fields, and cattle sheds, occupying 2½ acres came under the hammer and was knocked down to the local council for £1550. The final amount raised by the sale, which also included land at Calstock, was £67,000.

In a similar vein, the Quethiock Estate, part of the wider Pentillie Estate owned by the local squire William Coryton was also disposed of at an auction in Plymouth on 15 August 1919. The property comprised a number of corn, sheep dairy farms, with woods and coppices, quarries- and sporting rights, and also numerous small holdings, accommodation lands, mill properties, a fully licensed inn, blacksmith's, wheelwright's and carpenter's shops, Quethiock post office, school-house, cottages and gardens. Altogether the property covered about 4,200 acres and had previously produced a rental of over £5,500 per annum. In total the sale of the estate raised £122,872.

One wonders whether the break-up of the estate may have proved too much for William Coryton. Although he had been in failing health for a long time, just 12 days after the auction he died aged 72. He was widely respected locally and as soon as news of the death became known the tenor bell of the church at St Mellion was tolled continuously for an hour. His funeral took place in the same church a few days later on 30 August. William Coryton was very much a traditional country squire, being Master of firstly, the East Cornwall, and then the Dartmoor Hunt, over a period of 40 years. He was also a keen agriculturist, who did much to improve the viability of his land. One of his most notable achievements being the reclamation of over 600 acres of infertile land at Viverdon Down near Amy Tree. Previously the area had consisted of boggy, acid land covered with gorse and rank vegetation, but in 1899 a successful project began to improve the drainage and bring the ground under cultivation. He also had interests in dairy farming and formed the Three Towns Dairy Company in Plymouth to distribute milk, and also supply the large liners which then came into the port.

William Coryton

In recent years, the press has often noted the passing of a veteran of the First World War, or more latterly Dunkirk. In contrast, one hundred years ago in Saltash it was the death of a local veteran of the Crimean War (1853-56), aged 84, that was a point of interest.

Tragedy also struck Saltash on 30 November when seven Royal Navy sailors were drowned in the Tamar. Their ships, the sloops the Silvio and Swindon were moored above Saltash Bridge, and the men had taken a 13½ft ship's boat without permission for an ill-fated run ashore to the pub in Saltash. On their return, in strong winds, the boat had become swamped and all the men drowned, their bodies subsequently being found near Tamerton Creek.

Returning to Pillaton, on 15 December a letter from the Reverend Richard Hocking appeared in the Western Morning News enclosing a cheque for £8 17s. This sum had been collected in Pillaton in support of the newspaper's Relief Fund for the dependents of the 31 men who had died in the terrible mining disaster on 20 October at Levant Mine, Pendeen in the far west of Cornwall. The tragedy happened when a metal bracket on the man engine carrying more than 100 miners to the surface suddenly broke. The lowest levels of the mine were subsequently abandoned, so that in addition to the bereaved, many men were thrown out of work. The incident evoked sympathy on a national scale, with many fund-raising efforts being launched and King George V asking to be kept personally updated on the situation.

TAMAR AREA PROSTATE SUPPORT (TAPS)

Purpose: To provide support to patients in the Tamar Valley area in the process of being diagnosed, treated or in the post-treatment phase of prostate cancer.

Whether you have just been diagnosed, are in the middle of treatment, or have come out on the other side, we would like to invite you to join a new support group. The group meetings will provide relevant information on prostate cancer, encourage supportive discussion with others in the same boat, and provide advice and support from those who have been before you.

The Group is very informal, and its meetings are open to men and their partners/friends. Although TAPS was established by the TVH Practice and its Patient Group, the aim is for TAPS to be self-sufficient in its organisation and funding. It meets on the first Wednesday of the month at 6.30pm, normally at Callington Health Centre. For some monthly meetings a specialist speaker may be arranged, and on other occasions, there will be semi-structured discussions or other activities.

ANYONE WORRIED ABOUT PROSTATE CANCER OR INTERESTED IS VERY WELCOME TO JOIN THE GROUP

NEXT MEETING: WED 3rd APRIL 2019 AT 6.30 PM
CALLINGTON TOWN HALL (note venue change)

TOPIC: Small group discussions on coping with longer term side effects after treatment for prostate cancer. Plus a separate group for wives and partners.
