Pillaton Village News

No. 223 January 2023

Happy New Year to all readers of the Village News. For this edition you'll probably be pleased to know that I'm not going to rabbit on about the general state of the country at the moment with inflation, strikes and hospital waiting times; it's all too gloomy to contemplate. Probably better to just creep back under the duvet.

One of the things we can look forward to though is the Coronation in May. From all the advance information it looks as though everything will take place on a much smaller scale than the grand imperial showcase events of the last century. Whatever happens it should provide a pleasant diversion and maybe to enjoy the full traditional Coronation experience, we might need to think about swapping the widescreen TV for a black and white set and inviting friends around. But however you choose to mark the occasion, you will see from the front page that Pillaton's celebration is going to be much the same as for last year's Platinum Jubilee. This proved to be such a great success, that a similar event is being planned for the Village Hall to be held on the Coronation Bank Holiday on Monday 8 May.

Changing subject completely, have you ever thought that those special sales offers by retailers are not always what they're cracked up to be. I suppose Ryanair are probably one of the most notorious proponents of advertising such deals. The price of the initial ticket might be dirt cheap, but should you need to take any hold luggage that's going to cost. Hand baggage mustn't exceed the dimensions of a pocket handkerchief, and to ensure you can take it into the aircraft cabin, you'd better sign up to the 'speedy boarder' option. By the time you've finished the total looks remarkably similar to a full price ticket.

I had a similar experience trying to buy new spectacles the other day, half price they certainly were not. "Would Sir, like the anti-glare coating? How about anti-scratch glazing, plus our extended warranty facility." Once the final price had been calculated according to some complicated algorithm, it was nothing like my original estimate. When I queried this, it was pointed out that the offer didn't apply to the nice designer frames I'd chosen, only to selected inhouse frames, which all seemed to have a striking resemblance to those offered by the NHS in the early years. Actually to be fair to the shop in question I was quite happy with what I ended up with, but perhaps not the price.

I'm sure the same experience can be applied to the purchase of many other consumer items these days. From buying furniture to a mobile phone, quite apart from the vast amount of choice, there always seems to be just that little extra to add. My resolution for the New Year, when you spot an offer, be suspicious!

The next copy date is 6 March - full details on page 23.

ANY OTHER BUSINESS

Cllr Warne informed the Council that there was a problem with identifying the code for the defibrillator but that he would continue to monitor the procedure.

Sue McClaughry addressed the Council to report plans to make the church more amenable for wider use as a community facility, including rearrangements to some of the existing layout of pews, installation of water (for a modest kitchen facility) and creating a lavatory probably in the external ex- boiler house. Sue emphasised that any structural changes would take a long time to implement, and options/plans were at a very early stage, but she wished to keep the village fully informed of these ideas for enhancing use of the Church.

Cllr Bunkum raised the problem of fireworks frightening animals. The Council agreed that the best solution was for households to warn in advance that they intended setting off fireworks.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF CHRISTMAS TREE FESTIVAL

REPAIR, REUSE, RECYCLE

Well, the brief was for something different and we certainly got it! The Church was full of light for all the Christmas Services and many visitors came in to enjoy the Lit up afternoons and have a cup of tea and a chat.

The magnificent traditional Christmas tree, supplied as usual, by Ian Edwards and family, was joined by a small forest of trees, bright, shining beautiful, weird and wonderful using anything from jewelled lamp shades to well-used dog toys.

A pair of draped scarf “trees” lit from within stood in the porch to welcome visitors in to see the two dozen extra trees brightened up St Odulph’s Church over the Christmas period, they ranged from the tiny glowing copper coil by John Stannard to the tinkling twinkling bare branch from the Bell and Hand Bell wringers. The Spaniel Family also used a bare branch supported in a pair of wellies to display their rogues gallery of dog photos, treats and tattered toys.

The ‘Reuse’ option gave people the chance to admire again the artwork on the PAAC wooden branched tree, the mass of knitted Poppies came in from the cold to stand proudly by the choir stalls, while tops and bottoms of many old plastic trees divided up to make bases for new beautiful baubles made from old Christmas cards and beautiful knitted toys made by the Knit and Natter Group. The choir angel tree teetered on the edge of the high niche but never fell to earth.

Thanks to Trina the children had made a truly glittering display of familiar Christmas characters and even a few not so familiar, plenty of imagination there! Kirstie's amazing recycled plastic bottle tree showed a glowing iceberg blue in a dark corner, while by contrast, Greta's exquisite silver white tree of Honesty seedheads shimmered most in the daylight.

The Book Club decided a bit of heavy reading was in order, their finely balanced tree of books needed a sturdy table from the Weary to take its weight, by it's side, in contrast, stood the little tree Cathy Bowyer had constructed from jewels hung on stripped down lampshade frames.

Sue McClaughry made two trees, one coiled tinsel, lit from within and a little tree from foam packaging which was so light it was in danger of blowing off the window sill, Sue Archer also contributed two ,a rattan tree whose coloured lights reflected the stained glass windows and also hung on the pulpit was a stunning quilted tree by Ann Barnicoat, first used in the 2016 Festival.

The area behind the organ was home for Helen Smith's colourful coil of baubles Lesley's pocket sized tree on a pedestal, and the Gardening Club entry by Ian Edwards ,a striking skeleton Christmas tree decorated with dry fruit and vegetables.

A big thank you to all those who brought trees, visited, cleaned up or helped in any way, I hope you enjoyed bringing some light and entertainment to the dark December days, it was lovely to see so many people in Pillaton getting involved.

I would like to say particular thanks to Sue Archer, Trina, Pam Lowther, and Sue McClaughry for their support with the organisation, refreshments and publicity, without you it would not have happened.

RECTOR'S NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE

A Happy New Year to you all! We await the events of this year and hope that it improves upon the previous years, although I have to admit that I'm not holding my breath.

More joyfully, the church has plans - and that is good news. Firstly, Bishop Hugh will join us on 22 January (see below) to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the lightning strike to St Odulph's which caused so much damage to the building, and this will be a celebration of the restoration and determination of the community to repair the damage.

As I hope you have seen, the PCC has plans to re-order the building, following the re-ordering of a number of neighbouring parish buildings. As well as enhancing how the building may be used for worship, it will also allow flexibility allowing for greater social use, both for the congregation and the village. We're also looking forward to the visit of Venerable Kelly Betteridge (Archdeacon of Bodmin) for Father's Day in June.

In the meantime, we stand ready to welcome you to worship. We recognise that for many, Sunday is a busy day, in which case why not join us for a simple service of Holy Communion on the first Tuesday of each month at 9.30 am. A service without music, just a reflective quiet. You'd be very welcome. Some express regret that they're unable to join the church for worship, to which I answer, "We rejoice with you when you can, and pray for you when you can't!" Every blessing.

Rev Chris

We very much hope that all our community will join us for this celebration, together with those who were involved in the restoration of the church.

The service will be followed by coffee and cake in the Village Hall.

COFFEE MORNINGS

Please come and join us for tea, coffee, cake, and a good catch up. After much success here is another chance for locals to get together to make new friends and enjoy each other's company.

PILLATON GARDENING CLUB

Pillaton Gardening Club will be holding their Annual General Meeting in the Village Hall on Thursday 16 February at 7.00 pm. Everyone is welcome. Then, following the AGM, on Saturday 18 February between 2.30 and 4.00 pm, we will be holding demonstrations in the Village Hall on 'How to Stage your Show Entries.' This is in advance of our Spring Show which is for flowers and pot plants only, whilst the Summer Show has these two categories plus additional ones for vegetables, fruit, handicraft, needlecraft, art, cookery, preserves, wine and colour photography.

Leaflets will be produced to offer guidance on how to stage and we hope that those interested in 'showing' will come along to the demonstrations and examples on display. My basic rule is that if it looks OK, then it probably is and the role of the Gardening Club is to aid and assist those who want to take part. Contact Linda 07969966917 or Carole 350063 for more information.
